

The Waters

inspirational poem & background painting

by Kathy Brusnighan

© 5/06

To see her paintings, click on The Fullness Art Studio

The waters seem to overwhelm me and take my breath!
I draw in and my voice is silenced, for I feel I have lost my direction.
And yet, I know that you are here.....
You remind me that I am not alone.

You have hemmed me into a place of emptiness.
I know that you will show yourself to me here.
For you are my only hope!
You are my only answer!

The reality of my nakedness looms before me
The truth of my dependency on you whispers constantly to my heart!
I can do nothing - only trust that you love me and stay close.
For you will not leave me here,
Nor will you abandon your Beloved!

I cling to the assurance of your salvation
(sozo-healing,deliverance,salvation)
My heart clutches your promises as a child clutches to its parent.
My effort is cast aside...and I stand, aware of my need of you...

For you have lead me into the desert, formed and fashioned by you.
Where the heat and dryness will cause all that I have held in my hands to fall away.

For only the water from hidden wells will sustain me in this place
Therefore, I will seek the deep waters,
Knowing that you will not allow me to perish!

O come to me and burn away all that is my own!
That peace and joy will come to this land within me.
O Redeemer, Lover of my Soul!

I will wait here for you, I will rest in your arms in the midst of the flames,
For only here will I become perfected and fit for use in the House of My GOD.